Dear Friends,

This Business of living in God's World can be a pretty exhausting experience. Not just physically exhausting, but mentally and emotionally exhausting as well. Modern man may not be without material success, but this doesn't exempt him from the pressures of living.

Just as we may say that God made the countryside, and man can marr that beauty by building a petrol station in a glorious valley, or by building a row of vulgar holiday chalets next to the majestic, rolling sea, or by leaving empty bottles and litter in the most delicious of our wooded glades...so....we can say that God gave us life, and we can shatter that creation by our own feeble-mindedness, our desire to be one up on our neighbour, our revenge tactics, our self-pity.

Most of the hurt and harm in this world is caused because we are not willing to value human life for what it is. Sometimes we set up our own desires and selfish ends as all important, and we forget that, whoever we are, others are involved. None of us live on our own. Every death reported in the obituary column means sadness and tears for someone. Every juicy bit of gossip means unhappiness and despair for others. Every wrong decision will involve someone taking offence. Every enjoyable bit of court news from the Sunday paper means that someone, somewhere, is going through a shattering experience.

Whoever we are, living is not without its tension and trouble. Some people seem to have more than their share. I believe that God has given us a trump card in all this. He has given mankind the ability to stand by his neighbour. Sometimes we are too busy, sometimes too snobbish, sometimes too self-conscious to do this. God did this in a big way through the Incarnation. Jesus had the quality to be 'God with us'. He got alongside ordinary men and women and showed them that God was their Father.

In the seventies, our job hasn't changed as Christians. We still have to get alongside ordinary folk and by our thoughtfulness, our caring, our words, our actions, prove to them that God is still our Father. For us, this is what living in God's world involves.

Yours sincerely,

Glyn Jenkins

IN MEMORIAM

We are very sorry to have to report the passing of Mr. CLEMENT TRAVIS of 8 Moorland Avenue, who died in Rochdale Infirmary on Sunday 18th October, aged 77 years. The funeral was on Thursday 22nd October at St. Stephen's, conducted by the minister. Mr. Travis was a life-deacon of the church. His work as Church Treasurer for 20 years was of the highest calibre. His lay active service will be remembered for years to come, as will his strong faith and kind disposition. Our sympathy is extended to all the relatives.

UKRANIAN EVENING

A large audience spent an enjoyable evening on Monday, 12th October, when they were entertained by members of the Ukranian Community in the Milton Congregational Church.

The event was organized by the Missionary Committee of the Rochdale Group of Congregational Churches, with the help of the Liaison Officer, Mr. Michael Muzyka.

Maria Losiw aged 10 and her brother Michael, aged 7, delighted the audience with their songs, both serious and humorous. Their charming national costumes added colour and character to a dance with which they ended the programme, accompanied on the piano accordian by Mr. P. Dumycz, who also contributed solo items.

During the evening traditional crafts were exhibited including woodwork by Mr. D. Melnyk and examples of intricate embroidery by Mr. P. Rybczak - all beautifully done.

Mr. Muzyka, who compared the proceedings, also gave us a brief insight into the Ukranian Community in Rochdale.

ALL IS SAFELY GATHERED IN

The ordinary man in the Western Hemisphere in 1970 is the richest ordinary man in human history. He eats more, lives longer, travels further and has more possessions than his grandfather would have dreamed of. And each year he looks for improvement.

Some of the declining few who happen to be Christians may occasionally worry slightly that Jesus said that to be perfect one has to give all that one has to the poor. This is very embarrasing, and it is as well that some comforting clergymen are willing to assure us that the bit about "camels" and "needles" need not be taken too literally and, in any case, the bit about giving money only applies if one is excentric enough to want to be "perfect".

Tactfully and timidly the churches in this country only ask us to give up to 1% of our income to the poor (who as it happens live mainly overseas). At St. Stephen's we decided by a proper democratic process that a voluntary collection would raise more than a 1% target. In fact we raised
